Police Update

The police have been in touch this week to confirm that they are still investigating the incident last Friday involving the man in a blue car and two of our children. You may also be aware of an earlier incident on Coat of Arms Bridge Road when two men were seen fighting and one of them was also driving a blue car. The police have established that there was no link between the individuals concerned and that the men involved in the fight have been eliminated from their enquiries.

Please continue to be on your guard until the police complete their investigations.
